Jesus loves me so I can accept anything He gives me.*

What did we learn from the virus?

That death is certain for us all. Or that Jesus is calling us all to a loving relationship with God the Father, Jesus the Son and the Holy Spirit. It has also taught us perspective on where sport fits in our lives - not above God or family but rather as an opportunity to use the skills God gave us, to build on those skills and to know that in doing so, all our efforts are to build up this world.

Sports goes away for every athlete – some after grade school, some after middle school, most after high school, and many of the remainder after college. Less than 1% become pros. Nothing should keep you from working towards your goals. Nothing should overtake you in that relationship of God and Family.

Perspective. That is what we learned from the virus. Right order means God, Family and our goals – in that order. Let's work incredibly hard with new equipment at Spirit & Sport. Let's develop new skills. Let's refine old skills. Let's let high school and college coaches know we are out there. Let's work towards being a pro by finding the little things that will give us an edge. We can do that at Spirit & Sport, but don't lose your perspective on sports - a great diversion for fans, a chance to excel for student athletes, an opportunity to advance for highly skilled student-athletes. Perspective - God, Family, Sports – we know the order now as the virus has put things in perspective.

Looking forward to a great offseason so we can build to a season to remake with Perspective.
